

The Question of Insurance

CANNP requires that all Members acquire insurance. Members may choose any insurance company they wish, as long as you are able to provide proof of insurance.

In addition to price, here are some things to consider when making your decision:

Deductible	Should there be a claim against you, do you have to pay a deductible, an initial outlay of money before the insurance funding becomes available to cover you? (The insurance company we have chosen to support has no deductible on professional liability, however if you are involved in a property damage claim under the commercial liability there is a $1,000 deductible and now under the business protection coverage there is a $500 deductible.)
Claims or Occurrence	Does the insurance company cover you for claims made in the past, once you are no longer practicing? (The insurance company the we have chosen to support covers you for life as long as the alleged claim made is during the time in which you were insured)
General Liability	Are you covered for incidents such as a client slipping and falling on your premises? (The insurance company that we have chosen to support covers you for practices that are operated from both the home or office for this sort of incident.)
Modalities Covered	Are you covered for all of your specific modalities? (The insurance company that we have chosen to support covers most modalities with a few exceptions — and some may incur an additional fee. Check about your modality with them directly)
Additional Fees	Are there additional fees associated with your insurance? Do you get charged a premium for dealing with minors, or professional athletes, or providing advice in the role of a teacher etc.? (The insurer that we have chosen to support has an administration fee built in but no additional fees for any of the above mentioned situations.)
Cancellation	Can you cancel your policy without penalty? (The insurer that we have chosen to support allows you to cancel your policy at any time and receive a refund on the unused portion of the premium on a short-rate basis.)
Application Process	What is required for you to complete the application process? (The insurer that we have chosen to support provides simple and easy to complete applications with no need for resumes, copies of intake records or waivers.)

CANNP advises that price should not be the only consideration when deciding on insurance.
